STUDENTS SHOULD EXPECT CHANGES IN NEW LIFE

Will Become Members Of College Community

On September 23, 1945, you who were formerly high school students will become college students at C. W. C. E. You will represent most of the 39 counties of the state. For the first time, many of you will attend school away from your homes and communities in which you have lived.

No one will need to remind you of the relative ease with which you lived, in adjustment to the demands of your homes and schools, of organized groups and cliques with which you were intimately associated.

However, you, as students, do need to be reminded that you must make intelligent adjustments to these changes. By coming here to college, you are severing definitely certain group associations and, in other cases, such as that of your home, you will maintain contacts by correspondence and more or less infrequent visitations.

You will be forming new associations and friendships as college students. You will work, live and play with other college students who came from homes, schools, and communities other than your own. In place of living in your own home, going to school in another portion of your community, and carrying on social and other activities in still other places, you will now carry on all these diverse activities on our college campus under the leadership and guidance of fellow students and of the faculty of this college. This college becomes, for a time, your new home and your new community where you will live for a certain period of time. You are about to become members of this Central Washington College Community. You will be responsible to it and for it during your period of residence here.

There are activities which seem to be almost exclusively student in character. There are other activities which seem to be almost exclusively faculty in character. But there is one thing of which we should be aware: there are no areas which are solely of concern to students or to faculty. Anything which affects student welfare is of concern to the faculty. Likewise, anything which affects the quality of instruction is of direct concern to the students. We cannot carry on our activities separately. We, students and faculty, live, work, and play together in one place—our college. For this purpose we have designated this community of interests the "Central Washington College Community."

DR. R. E. McCONNELL

McCONNELL WELCOMES FRESHMEN TO CWCE AND CAMPUS LIFE

All summer you have anticipated going to college. Now you are here, and I hope that it will be a greater adventure than you have visualized. I am happy to join with the students and the faculty in extending to you a very warm welcome. We hope to make your life here as pleasant and as worthwhile as possible.

During the first week you should have the pleasant experience of getting acquainted with your classmates and with the college. There will be social events, assemblies, and meetings that have been designed to introduce you to the institution. You will meet many of your teachers and you will be enrolled in your classes. Toward the end of the week you will attend your first classes.

Do not hesitate to ask questions. There are friendly students and faculty members who are ready to help and advise.

College offers you an opportunity to expand your knowledge of life and of a profession. It provides you with a large library where you may read great literature. It schedules recreational events and social events which will tend to enrich your personality. It affords you the opportunity to make warm and lifelong friendships. If you enter into life with enthusiasm and energy, you will receive a great amount of good. One gains in proportion to the effort expended.

We welcome you to Central Washington College of Education where we hope that you will experience a rich adventure.

STUDENT LOUNGE FOR STUDENTS—FOR COMFORT

The Student Lounge has been designed and equipped for the main purpose of affording a place of relaxation for all students during their idle moments. Offered to all those who wish to take advantage of it, is a library of current magazines. A radio and a record player are also available, with a record library that has grown, with the addition of popular hits, to a considerable size.

The students' lounge has always been unsupervised in the hope that the pride of personal ownership would be the stimulus for self maintenance. It has been the practice of those who use the room to replace any damaged equipment for which they are responsible.

Annually a member of the Student Government Association council is selected to be Lounge committee chairman, and this person makes arrangements for club nights. For the 1945-46 school year, Lorraine White will serve in this capacity.

During any class day students are welcome to stop and rest in the Lounge—open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Honor System Is CWCE Principle

Frequently college students become confused and even bewildered when there are few rules and regulations for conduct of students on our campus. They are told that students live and work under an "Honor System" of their own selection. This confusion is due to several causes: (1) All previous school experiences of new students has been under the direct supervision of school authorities. Here they are governed by rules created by these school authorities and enforced by them. (2) The new student is told that during his residence upon our campus that he will live under "The Honor Code"—that "He is on His Honor." This is vague in meaning and

MAXINE McCORMACK SGA PRESIDENT FOR COMING SCHOOL YEAR

The presidential office of the Student Government Association is a position that entails both honor and responsibility. It is an honor to be lectured by the majority of the students who thus signify their confidence in her ability to do the job. It is a responsibility in that the president, together with the executive board, represents the whole student body and the welfare of the CWCE community rests upon their shoulders.

As president, she must serve as the representative to the faculty from the students and from the students to the students. Hers is a position demanding a knowledge of the Student Government Association and its functions. Then this knowledge must be combined with an ability to organize, deputize, and supervise to promote a smooth and efficient functioning community.

The third woman to be elected as SGA president, Maxine McCormack, an Ellensburg girl and a senior, will serve for the 1945-1946 term. Her qualification for the position comes from her previous experience as secretary of the SGA, secretary of the A. W. S., vice-president of the Off-Campus Women's Club, and as president of Canterbury Club.

NEW CONSTITUTION WRITTEN IN 1942—WAHLE FIRST PRES.

The Student Government Association, of which every student is a member, begins its fourth year of existence with the opening of school this fall.

Until four years ago the student government was known as the Associated Student Body. At that time the student officers set about to make certain improvements in the ASB constitution. After studying forms of student government in other colleges, they decided not to revise their constitution but to write a whole new one and to change the name of the student government to Student Government Association. When the new constitution was written to their satisfaction, the ASB officers presented it to the student body for approval which it gave by a large vote in the spring of 1942.

Major changes brought about by the new constitution and form of student government were (1) the setting up of joint student-faculty committees for the conduct of those matters in which students and faculty were mutually concerned, and (2) the establishment of the honor system and the Honor Council.

Unfortunately for the new Student Government Association, it went into operation in the fall of 1942, at a time when the young men were leaving the college in large numbers to join the armed forces and the co-eds were leaving the campus at the end of their junior year with war emergency certificates to help ameliorate a serious teacher shortage in the state. The whole SGA plan had been built upon a four-year base whereby students would serve apprenticeships on a number of committees and in minor offices before assuming the responsibilities of major offices. Consequently, the new student government had rather "rugged" (as the soldiers say) going its first year. Roy Wahle, first president of the SGA served only until Christmas when he left for military service in Alaska; Ray Jongeward took over the helm until Easter when he entered the Army. It was evident by then that it was up to the women students to carry on, so Shirley Dickson (married last May to Lt. Phil Kern of the Marines) was chosen to finish out the year as president. Her abilities were recognized by the students who elected her to the presidency of SGA during its second year of existence. Under Shirley and her

THE CAMPUS CRIER SAYS THAT.....

Freshmen are welcomed and urged to participate in college activities and service organizations on the campus. The Campus Crier, the official school publication, strives to bring about school spirit and interest among the students and between the students and faculty. But the success of the paper depends upon the combined ability and interest of old students and the incoming students to work together to produce a paper that is true to journalistic standards all the way. Experience is not necessary to begin. The entire staff works hard, learns, and has fun together.

WE ARE THE YOUTH OF AMERICA; MUST CARE FOR MIND, BODY, SOUL

Youth is America's greatest asset.

And YOU are America's Youth.

The ideas that take root in you, the prejudices, the longings, the fears, the things you unconsciously worship and hold dear; your loves, your hatreds, your hopes, your aspirations—these determine America's strength; these determine her citizenry. The forces within you foretell what America's greatest resource shall be.

College offers you unlimited opportunity to develop your talents. Time and freedom are yours, but there are more things to do than you can ever get done. There are more books to read than you can ever leaf through. There are more avenues of enjoyment than you can ever find time to travel. Time is forever pressing. Its expenditure by you demands making choices. How will you spend your time at C. W. C. E. this year? What choices will you make?

Would it help to remind you that the physical body makes demands, and if you would have yours a good place in which to dwell you will allow time for ample sleep and rest, for good food and regularity of eating, for wholesome play and recreation that invigorates? The mind, too, makes demands and if you would prevent a thwarted vision see that your intellect is stimulated to constant action worthy of your best. The soul likewise makes its claims. Human life has perennial need for fresh invasions of reverence and spiritual insight. Feed your soul. It is your larger body.

The Road is Open. "One World" is Waiting. What will your preparation and service be?

FACULTY STUDENT WELFARE COMMITTEE CONCERNED WITH WELFARE OF STUDENTS AND SUCCESS OF S. G. A. —F. S. W. COMMITTEE FOR THE YEAR OF 1945-1946

The Faculty Student Welfare Committee is made up, as its name implies, of faculty members (five of them, to be exact) whose special concern is the welfare of the students and the success of the SGA. Each member serves four years. Since tenure on the committee is staggered, one member drops off each year and a new one is added. This plan allows for a constant flow of fresh ideas and vitality to the committee. Current members of the FSWC and the expiration dates of their terms of appointment are as follows:

Miss Helen Michaelson, September 1, 1946.

Miss Dorothy Dean, September 1, 1946.

Dr. L. D. Sparks, September 1, 1947.

Mr. Lawrence Moe, September 1, 1948.

Dr. Samuel R. Mohler, September 1, 1949.

The faculty Student Welfare Committee is now in its fifth year and is therefore one year older than the SGA. Under the chairmanship of kindly Dean Henry J. Whitney, who retired from the faculty two years ago, cordial relations and mutual confidence were permanently established between the faculty committee and the student officers.

Others, in addition to Dean Whitney, who have served on the committee are Dr. Hubert Coffey (at present a lieutenant in the Navy) and Miss Mabel Anderson of the Education Department; Miss Dorthalee Horne (now an instructor at the University of Washington) of the Physical Education Department; Mr. Wayne Hertz of the Music Department; and Dr. R. M. Shaw of the Social Studies Department.

The FSWC acts in an advisory capacity to the executive board of the SGA and to the Honor Council.

Once a month the Faculty Student Welfare Committee meets with the executive board to discuss matters concerning student government and to make plans for student extra-curricular activities for the ensuing month.

The Honor Council also meets frequently with the faculty group to discuss things pertaining to the honor system and honor principle. By Article VII of the SGA constitution (see page four) certain types of disciplinary cases must be turned over to the FSWC by the Honor Council for investigation and decision.

HONOR SYSTEM IS COLLEGE PRINCIPLE; STUDENTS RESPONSIBLE TO COLLEGE COMMUNITY FOR CONDUCT

subject to many and various interpretations.

It is suggested that each student turn to Article VII of the S. G. A. constitution printed on the back page of this issue and read it carefully.

Since student conduct on this campus will be governed by the provisions of Article VII, it is necessary that a clear interpretation of its meaning be made at this time.

During the school year 1943-44, officers of the S. G. A. and members of the Faculty Student Welfare Committee held many meetings for purposes of interpreting and putting into operation the "Honor System." From the outset, committee members were aware of certain difficulties which had direct bearing upon the problem which confronted them. (1) Students had little or no experience in living under an honor system. (2) Students were accustomed to living under an authoritarian system of control. (3) Certain problems of student conduct needed immediate attention. It was therefore, required that something be done to put the "Honor System" into operation.

The combined committees formulated certain pertinent questions, which, if they could answer, would have direct bearing upon the situation which faced them.

1. "Shall we make a series of rules covering all phases of student conduct on our campus?"

2. "If we do make such rules, would it further or defeat the purposes of the Honor System?"

3. "Is there something better than rules that will achieve the purposes as stated in our constitution?"

Rules (shall we use them?)

By definition: A "Rule is an authoritative direction or enactment" or "a prescribed form of conduct."

There are certain characteristics of rules which were apparent at once.

1. They are adopted by constituted authority for the sake of order and uniformity.

2. They require an enforcement agency, which, in turn, assures responsibility, on the part of that agency, for conduct of each individual student.

The representatives of students and faculty unanimously agreed that rules, as thus defined, would defeat the purpose of the honor system.

"The Honor Principle"

A study of the honor system in other colleges helped to clarify the thinking of this joint committee. They discovered that there is such a thing as a principle of honor, namely: that all students are responsible to the college community, of which they are a part, for all conduct at all times. Further, any conduct injurious to the group should result in bringing the offender against the best interests of the group before the group offended for explanations of such conduct and censure, if the group decides that such conduct was not for the best interests of all concerned.

This principle of control of conduct of individuals serves two purposes: (1) It tends to establish on the part of the individual, responsibility for his own conduct. (2) It protects the best interests of the group.

The student-faculty committee agreed that this principle of conduct fitted best the spirit and meaning of Article VII of the S. G. A. Constitution. They therefore agreed that hereafter, "Each student is responsible to the Honor Council of the Student Government Association of C. W. C. E. for his conduct at all times and in all places while he is a student in this college. Furthermore, he is expected to conduct himself in such a manner that he will reflect honor and credit upon the group of which he is a member."—THIS IS THE HONOR PRINCIPLE. This is what is meant by being "on your honor."

Honor Council Furthers Honor System; Helps Students Honor Council 1945-46

The Honor Council has a key position in furthering the Honor System, for the duties of handling most student problems are the responsibility of these elected members. They have as their consultants five faculty members, known as the Faculty Student Welfare Committee, who are called on as the need arises for suggestions and advice.

Members of the Honor Council are elected by students to help promote gracious and dignified living. To be a worthy member of the C. W. C. E. Community precludes a developed social conscience, convictions regarding services one can give, and a planned program for living. For satisfying service one must have knowledge and understanding of basic needs: mental, physical, and spiritual; and one needs continuously to strive to fulfill those needs.

A friendly joyous outlook, a faith for living, and a sense of honor will help many over the hurdles that ever arise.

Our campus is a friendly campus, faculty and students alike are genuinely interested in newcomers here this year, and the Honor Council members join them in the desire that an enriched program of living be yours. Our program of action shall be planned toward that end.

WEDNESDAY EVENING PROGRAMS, NEW EXPERIMENT, PROVE WORTH TO STUDENTS, FACULTY

CWCE HAS FROSH ADVISORY SYSTEM 11 FACULTY MEMBERS

Getting started in college usually means knowing the answers to lots of questions and perplexing problems; freshman students are frequently seriously bothered unless they are able to find someone who can help them answer these questions—someone who can give them sensible suggestions and sympathetic counsel. That's why C. W. C. E. now has a freshman advisory system.

Upperclassmen and other students can and will be helpful to freshmen in certain types of problems. But for certain other problems—for example, setting up a class schedule which is "right" in terms of course requirements and study load—faculty members who know the college program and who understand freshmen are best able to advise. C. W. C. E. has eleven faculty members who have been selected to serve as freshman advisers.

"Who will my adviser be?" "When will I be able to get help from him?"

An experiment was begun winter quarter of 1945 which met with instant success on the campus. This experiment was the Wednesday Evening Programs begun by Student Government Association president Barbara Howard. The programs were a series of lectures and discussions given by students, faculty members, and visiting speakers.

A committee composed of two faculty members and three students—Dorothy Dean, Helen Michaelson, Betty Barlow, June Bach, and Dolores Clayton—selected topics concerned with political, historical, and geographical aspects of the war and also its influence on art, music, and literature. All programs were begun with musical offerings by students.

The programs were held on Wednesday evenings at 6:45 in the third floor auditorium of the music building. Attendance far exceeded expectations.

"Can I go to him for assistance any time during the year when I need assistance?" These questions are natural; fortunately they can be quickly answered. Faculty advisers are assigned to freshmen students at the College Has Many Old Traditions, Ways on Campus

Colleges and traditions go hand in hand. Customs and ways of doing things are handed down from one college generation of collegiates to the next, and thus after a period of time, traditions are born to become as integral a part of the campus as its favorite walks or trees. To aid you in becoming better acquainted with C. W. C. E., we have collected some of our traditions, grouped according to quarters, but there are others which are year around affairs.

There is the tradition of friendliness which knows no season. Ellensburg winds may blow hot, blow cold, or just blow—the friendliness remains unchanged. Get into the friendly spirit early; it pays big dividends. Don't wait for introductions, say "Hello" to everyone.

Two dinners of each week stand out as traditional. On Sundays and on Wednesdays we dress up for dinner. A program of music, student talent, is given between courses. Sunday dinner opens with the singing of "Grace" and both dinners close with "Alma Mater."

S. G. A. and A. W. S. mixers and informal parties are weekly affairs, which will aid you in getting acquainted and in making friends.

"Alma Mater," our favorite song, is sung at the close of all S. G. A. assemblies, athletic contests, and college banquets. The school colors are crimson and black.

AUTUMN QUARTER

Freshmen Orientation—This program, planned and sponsored by the Deans, is designed to help you in your adjustment to college life.

First Sunday Tea—Sponsored by A. W. S., this tea is given not only for freshmen but for parents who accompany their daughters to the campus. Faculty members and upper classmen are in attendance to meet and welcome the guests.

Big Sister Tradition—The upper class girls constitute the Big Sisters and the freshmen, the Little Sisters. The plan is what its name implies—friendships with older students, informal good times, and someone to go to for advice.

Student-Faculty Picnic—This is one of the highlights of the first week, when faculty and students play and eat together.

Church Parties—The first Friday evening of the school year is set aside for the churches of Ellensburg to welcome their student members, old and new.

A. W. S. Formal Welcoming Tea—Given by A. W. S. to honor new faculty members as well as new students, this tea is one of the outstanding "dress-up" social functions of the year.

Homecoming—This title covers a week-end of exciting affairs which comes during the latter part of October. Your Student Government Association is host to the alumni and former students of C. W. C. E. A queen and her court rule over the festivities which include stunt night, where prizes are awarded for entertainments by each campus organization, a banquet and dance.

Snowball—This is the first formal dance and is sponsored by the Associated Women Students. It is a women's invitation dance and extends possibilities for delightful decorations.

A. W. S. Christmas Tea—To old timers this tea recalls—the tall, gaily decorated Christmas tree, reaching from Kamola's brick room to touch the chandelier on the ceiling of the second floor living rooms; Kamola's four fireplaces crackling out a warm and cheery welcome; Christmas greens and candles; old English wassail and fruit cake.

WINTER QUARTER

S. G. A. Wednesday Evening Programs—Following Wednesday night dinners, the students adjourn to the auditorium of the Music Building to participate in interesting lectures on current events and the arts.

Colonial Ball—This was a minus number last year because of the man power shortage, but we can reminisce, can't we? And we can do a bit of post war planning. A queen and her attendants are elected by the students to preside over these festivities.

Cupid's Informal—Valentine's Day carries an interesting motif for this informal dance. The sophomore class is the sponsor.

Barn Dance—Long beards, goatees, side-burns and even glued on whiskers have provided many laughs in former years for this very informal costume dance. Quadrilles, Virginia reels, and square dances provide a true old-time atmosphere.

W. A. A. Banquet—The Women's Athletic Association holds a formal initiation banquet for the active members. At this annual meeting the W. A. A. sportsmanship cup is presented.

Formal Dinner—Sponsored by the College Dining Hall, this is truly a gala affair—candle light, gay formals, music and good food! The faculty administration officers are guests of honor.

SPRING QUARTER

Mother's Day—A highlight of the college year comes when we invite our mothers from far and wide to be our guests on the campus. Week-end activities include a tea, a banquet and a program planned especially for the mothers. Mother's Day is sponsored by A. W. S. The Iyoptians announce their selection at this time. The A. W. S. scholarship plaque is awarded, and the announcement is made of the winners of the two twenty-five dollar A. W. S. scholarships.

May Prom—A gay springtime formal sponsored by the Off-Campus group. It is usually a women's invitation dance.

Off-Campus Women's Banquet—This annual event is usually given at the New York Cafe. Announcement of the club scholarship is made at this affair.

W. A. A. Week-End Camping Trip—This annual affair is the climax of W. A. A. activities for the year.

S. G. A. Council Dinner and Theater Party—The S. G. A. council members relax from the year's tasks and, with various faculty advisers, enjoy a dinner down town followed by a show.

All-School Picnic—This May event for faculty and students was given up because of gasoline rationing but we are remembering it as a post war plan. We used to load up trucks, drive down to Eschbach Park, swim, go boating, have a tug-o-war, play baseball, dance, sing, and eat quantities of good picnic food.

Graduation Reception—Honoring the graduates and their parents, this reception is given by the college following the commencement exercises. It is for all students and faculty members.

CWCE Has Frosh Advisory

very start of Freshman Orientation Week and on Tuesday evening, September 25, an assembly has been scheduled in order to bring freshmen students and advisers together. Then the following day, Wednesday, September 26, advisers will assist freshmen all day during registration.

This, however, is just the beginning of the advisory program. From then on, throughout the year, advisers will find opportunities to be of help to their counselees and freshmen should not hesitate to seek their assistance and counsel whenever bothersome problems arise.

Central Washington College of Education provides two central offices for the counselling of students and for general supervision of student living and the social program—the offices of the Dean of Women and the Dean of Men. These offices serve as clearing houses for whatever student problems may arise which interfere with the student's adjustment to the entire college program—to his studies, to his living arrangements, to his personal health, and to his social program.

The Dean of Women, Mrs. Hitchcock, has many contacts throughout the year with women students, individually and in social groups. She serves as director of student social activities, adviser to the Associated Women Students, and she has charge of off-campus employment for women students. In addition, she supervises campus living through house mothers and hall councils and checks on campus living arrangements for off-campus women.

The Dean of men—when men students show up!—likewise checks on living arrangements of out-of-town men students who live either in Munson Hall or off-campus. He is in charge of off-campus employment for men and together with the Dean of Women and the Director of Instruction helps to administer loan funds for students.

ALL-SCHOOL ORGANIZATIONS NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL HONORARIES RELIGIOUS CLUBS DEPARTMENTAL CLUBS SERVICE CLUBS RESIDENCE GROUPS

Realizing how important club membership is in the life of a collegian, Central Washington College offers a wealth of excellent organizations to which students may belong during their sojourn at our institution. From college club work a great deal can be gained; intimate friendships can develop; students can relax and chat with their professors; and members can derive experience and pleasure from planning and observing long-to-be-remembered programs.

However, because one gets out of anything in like proportion to what he puts into it, the number of clubs in which students have membership should be limited. When anyone becomes part of a campus organization, there are certain responsibilities which are inseparable from the privileges. After school lessons have been completed, one's time is usually very limited, so it is advisable to choose club membership with great care and forethought!

The organizations on the campus of C. W. C. E. are as follows:

ALL-SCHOOL ORGANIZATIONS

Student Government Association—Every student enrolled at this college automatically becomes a member of this organization. The S. G. A. constitution, said to be one of the most progressive of any student group in the United States, gives the students the right to govern their own activities and to actually have a voice in the administration of their affairs. Through the Inter-Club Council, the S. G. A. coordinates all organizations on the campus. The vice-president of S. G. A. serves as chairman of the council, and the members are the presidents of all campus clubs.

Associated Women Students—Every woman student belongs to this active organization. Responsible for many of the annual campus traditions, the A. W. S. sponsors a welcoming tea for new faculty members and students, the Snowball formal, the Christmas tea, and the Mother's Day weekend.

NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL HONORARIES

Association for Childhood Education—The Meisner Branch of this national and international organization is for all prospective teachers interested in work with the young child. Its purpose is to promote progressive education and to raise the standards of professional training of teachers.

Kappa Delta Pi, the educational honorary, bases its membership on scholastic achievement, personal standards, and professional promise in the teaching field. Each year the campus chapter, Delta Omicron, honors freshmen with high scholastic records at a recognition tea.

RELIGIOUS CLUBS

Religious organizations at C. W. C. E. are eight in number and are affiliated with the various churches throughout the city. Students are cordially invited to become active in the club of their choice.

Baptist Young People's Union.
Canterbury Club for the Episcopalians.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship for anyone interested.

Lutheran Students' Association.
Newman Club for the Roman Catholics.

Eri-Chi Club for those of the Christian church.

Wesley Club for the Methodists.
Westminster Club for the Presbyterians.

DEPARTMENTAL CLUBS

Crimson "W" Club is for all men students who have a letter in one of the five major sports and who are voted into the club. Among their activities, the members sponsor a smoker and distribute programs at athletic contests.

Dance Club, composed of women interested in modern dance, meets twice a week to practice the fundamental as well as the more complex of dance steps. Featured activities are the Christmas concert and the Mother's Day program numbers.

Herodoteans is the oldest club on the campus. For those who major or minor in history, this honorary provides many profitable meetings climaxed by an annual bean feed.

Home Economics Club, affiliated with the American Home Economics Association, provides the opportunity for all women students with similar interests to meet together and study the professional opportunities in their field. Service groups are also formed to assist with special social affairs on the campus.

Kappa Pi is a national art honorary, and it consists of those students who show interest and desire for participation in art functions and activities. During years of normalcy a trip is planned to some point of art interest.

Pan-American League—With bi-monthly meetings, this club made a study of Peru last year, and students gave reports on the history, people, and problems of that country. Outside speakers were featured, and a picnic was held at the end of the year with Cuban and Mexican food being served.

P. E. Majors and Minors—This club is for all women students who major or minor in the field of physical education. With monthly meetings, the club schedules outside speakers who discuss the different phases of this field. Featured social events are skiing and bicycle trips.

Phoebians is the organized group of pre-nursing students at the college. With weekly meetings, this club plans activities such as the doll display showing the progress of nursing and Red Cross work.

Sigma Mu Epsilon is the college music organization. The main yearly projects are the sponsoring of a student recital each quarter and the maintaining of the music library in the building of this department.

Orientation Week To Help Freshmen Know CWC Campus

Why have a Freshman Orientation program? It isn't enough to say that other colleges have them, or that C. W. C. E. has had similar programs in years past; it is more to the point to say that they meet a very important need. And what is that need? Freshmen need help to get acquainted with the college they have chosen to attend; they need to know what the entire college program consists of—studies, activities, clubs, social life, and so on; they need to know how to "get around" the campus; they need to know the rules and regulations that govern college life and activities. Perhaps these things could be learned anyway through a slow process of trial and error, but it would be a wasteful and sometimes painful process; the better method is to take time before classes begin to get some "orientation" to college.

And that's what the Freshman Orientation Program at Central Washington College is set up to do! College classes don't begin until Thursday morning—and that means that three full days are available for activities which help the freshman student, who is a stranger to the college campus, to become acquainted with his new "environment." Then when Thursday arrives, he is ready to start his college program and to participate effectively in all phases of college life.

Events are scheduled for the first three days before classes begin and from then on through the first three weeks of the quarter. By means of these events the freshman student gets to know something about college health and library service, how the advisory system helps freshmen, what college activities are available and what the requirements for membership are, how the student government operates, what college courses are available and what they consist of, how to study in college, and so on. And, of course, there's fun and good fellowship interspersed throughout the program.

sors a program of both sports and dance for women with a talent and interest in these activities. The W. A. A. calendar includes an initiation fire-side, a dance club festival, a monthly play night, and an over-night camping trip each year.

Whitbeck is the club for any student interested in geography. With numerous outside speakers featured during the year, the programs are entertaining and valuable.

SERVICE CLUBS

Iyoptians—This is a sophomore honorary composed of twenty women whose names are announced each year at the Mother's Day program. They perform much service to the school each year. Their duties range from ushering at school programs to being "Big Sisters."

Intercollegiate Knights—The Claw Chapter of this organization is the men's national service fraternity on the campus. Their activities, great in number, include everything from aiding at athletic functions to nominating the homecoming queen each year.

RESIDENCE GROUPS

Kamola, the largest and oldest dormitory on the campus, serves as "home" for a large number of women each year. Among the numerous activities of this hall, the Moon Glow Formal each winter quarter is a highlighter.

Munson, located by the meandering brook, is the hall where the men students on the campus "hang their hats" during the year. With its set of officers, Munson undertakes an active year with many affairs, including the spring quarter breakfast for the faculty men and the numerous firesides.

Off-Campus Women's Club was initiated to join together all women collegians who do not live in a college dormitory. With annual functions, such as the May Prom, this group enjoys many social good times.

Sue Lombard, the hall in conjunction with the dining hall and the infirmary, is also a resident hall for women students. Each quarter gay houseparties are enjoyed with the highly popular Daffodil Dance held in April.

THIS IS OUR CONSTITUTION

This is a copy of the constitution of the Student Government Association of Central Washington College. It was approved by the students and faculty and went into operation at the beginning of the fall quarter of 1941.

Study this constitution and participate actively in the many privileges and opportunities it offers you.

able successor, Barbara Howard, the SGA matured and earned the confidence of all on the campus. Despite the fact that the SGA continues to operate largely on a three-year base, there are now on the campus a number of students who have had considerable experience in student government. Such a person is Maxine McCormack, this year's president. An honor student, a hard and systematic worker, liked by all for herself and for her friendly smile, Maxine, with the assistance of the other student officers, will direct SGA activities through another successful year.

Officers of the SGA fall mainly into two groups: those on the executive committee and those on the Honor Council.

The executive committee is the governing board of the SGA and for the current year is composed of the following persons:

President—Maxine McCormack.
Vice-President—Gladys Jett,
Secretary—Elaine Millard.
Treasurer—Kenneth Courson.
Representatives-at-large: Freda Kershaw, Don Ide, Lorraine White, Barbara Woods.

All of these officials, except Mr. Courson, were elected by the students at the general spring election last May and will serve until the close of school in June. Mr. Courson is a perennial, holding office by virtue of his position as business manager of the college. The value of his membership on the committee is inestimable, for the student officers depend upon his advice in making up the annual SGA budget as well as for advice on all other financial matters. The executive board meets every Monday night in its office adjoining the Student Lounge when it discusses all things concerning student government.

It is the function of the Honor Council to interpret and administer the honor system. (See Art. VII of the SGA constitution on page four). It is made up of six students, four of whom are elected in February and two at the general spring election. Present members and the expiration dates of their terms are as follows:

Mavis Maxey, February, 1946.
Norma Karvonen, February, 1946.
Rita Murphy, February, 1946.
Patty Pyle, February, 1946.
Gladys Hanson, June, 1946.
Jane Litven, June, 1946.
Mavis Maxey is chairman of the Honor Council.

This, then, is the general structure of the Student Government Association. Two assisting agencies, however, should be mentioned. Ready at all times to help the SGA officers in making and carrying out plans are the social deans, Dr. Samuelson and Mrs. Hitchcock, and the Faculty Student Welfare Committee.

Wednesday Eve Programs Prove Worth To Student And Faculty Audience

Instead of 25 to 50 interested students and faculty members, as was hopefully anticipated, there were 125 to 200 persons present.

The purposes of these programs were to:

1. Stimulate thinking in world problems, and
2. Broaden the students' background in fields other than the one chosen as a major.

The experiment was so successful that Maxine McCormack, present S. G. A. president, was asked to continue it this year during the winter quarter. The committee she chose to draft the new series of programs consisted of Mary Frances Leonard, chairman, Dorothy Johnston, Dorothy Dean, and Reginald Shaw. Also in the offing for this year is a new feature which may become known as "S. G. A. Book Reviews." Heeding requests from many students for book reviews, Maxine McCormack has chosen a second committee to promote literary evenings devoted to books, both new and old, and concerned with a variety of topics.
